Not illustrated. 1896 Excerpt: .church, which has probably never been employed in this city heretofore. The afternoon found the platform occupied by clergymen from the neighboring churches who brought all sorts of good words for the new church and its people. The address of the evening was historical in its character, and the ceremonies were under the direct charge of the pastor. The auditorium was crowded to its utmost capacity throughout the day. The interior was without decoration other than that given by the architects, except three floral pieces which rested against the altar. One of these, of white, bearing the inscription in red, September, 1660-1891, was from Peter Stuyvesant of New York. A basket of roses was from Mrs. Robert A Pinkerton, and a second basket of yellow roses was from the Women s Aid Society. The music, which was admirable, was in charge of the organist of the...
